

NOW A COCKTAIL TABLE

Never before has the industry been able to market a comparable new and innovative cocktail table video game at such modest cost. Wings, one of the most popular upright aerial combat games, is now available as a one or two-player coin-operated table, a feature that makes it unique in the field. And Electra's handsome styling with ample under-the-table leg room makes Wings light years ahead of its competition. See your local Electra distributor.
